

I grew up listening to Gabriel Heater every Saturday night to hear the news of the week. He was informative, unbiased and unafraid... Then came Walter Cronkite on CBS News, then to Good Morning America on ABC... They had an occasional comment but usually the news was honest, unbiased and entertaining.

Today, all of the networks, except for FOX, are biased, dishonest and unentertaining. It is impossible to tell the news commentators from the news reporters. The “talking heads” are condescending, biased and not the sort of persons that you would want to sit down and have a beer with.

If one of them started a comment with, “In my opinion”, I think I would have a heart attack.

The rule used to be that the media’s role was to keep the politicians honest. Instead, today, the media has become the politicians lap dog.

The saying used to be that an “honest politician” was an oxymoron... Today, I believe an “honest news reporter” is in the same category...
